Park Hyatt New York has unveiled the ultra-luxury Manhattan Sky Suite. Located on the 59th floor of the iconic One57 luxury residential tower above the hotel, the expansive 4,200 square-foot three-bedroom suite literally takes Park Hyatt New York's renowned suite collection to new heights with the highest Central Park-facing suite on the city's luxury hotel market.

The hotel suite features 11-foot ceilings with floor-to-ceiling windows, a full chef's kitchen, and its crown jewel: The Grand Salon, a light-filled living and dining space designed with neutral hues and elegant furnishings, placing the unobstructed views of Central Park centre stage.

➔ Designed by Jeffrey Beers International, the Manhattan Sky Suite offers guests a front-row seat to Central Park's seasonal foliage changes. The suite's sophisticated and residential approach unlocks a rare, enriching experience for guests with contemporary furnishings, an exclusive Assouline-curated library, and a collection selected by the hotel's art curator, Erica Samuels of Samuels Creative & Co. Accessed via private elevator from the hotel lobby, the suite draws inspiration from the Upper East Side's chicly appointed penthouses and is truly a remarkable suite in the sky for one-of-a-kind stays.
