JBI completes renovation of Fairmont Banff Springs

Interior Architecture and Design studio Jeffrey Beers International (JBI) has shared its most recent completed hotel project, located in Canada's Banff National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. It has renovated the Fairmont Gold Guest Rooms and Fairmont Gold Suites at the majestic Fairmont Banff Springs Resort.

Using a modern version of its founder's vision, the updated rooms showcase a fairytale appeal making Fairmont Banff Spring a lavish getaway.

The Gold rooms are designed as a cozy sanctuary where guests feel 'warmth and love'. It features a mix of soft fabrics and natural materials, and a free-standing bar cabinet for a residential feel. The Gold suites showcase a more dramatic feel with a four-poster bed to bring in the mountain grandeur, complete with fireplace clad with rich marble and natural walnut in the living room. Epic and majestic, it provides access to the beauty of the Canadian mountainside jeffreymeers.com

Museum of London to make 5,000 stories from the capital available to the public for the first time

The Museum of London has announced it will transform digital access to the London Collection, making it easier for more people to engage with the museum online.

Developed with the support of Bloomberg Philanthropies' Digital Accelerator for Arts and Culture, this project will see 5,000 first-hand audio recorded stories in the museum's collection made publicly available to search and access for the first time. This represents the largest oral history collection focused on the people and history of London.

Trish Thomas, head of digital innovation, Museum of London, said: 'As a social history museum we are in a unique position to present our collections' human stories first, offering new ways in – especially for underrepresented audiences who often tell us they find museum collections stuffy and inaccessible... I am delighted that this project will enable us to bring London's stories to life for millions more people in the capital and around the world.' museumoflondon.org.uk
